DAVENPORT UNIVERSITY DEDICATES NEW ROBERT W. SNEDEN CENTER

Davenport University is honored to have recently received a $2.5 million donation from the M.E. Davenport Foundation toward the newest academic building on the W.A. Lettinga Campus in Grand Rapids – the Robert W. Sneden Center. The new building will be officially dedicated on Tuesday, September 14, under a tent in the parking lot in front of the newly constructed building. A luncheon and tour will follow the ceremony.

This new facility will enable Davenport to expand student enrollment and services at the W.A. Lettinga Campus and increase access and opportunities for business, education and the greater Grand Rapids community. It will enhance the learning environment for students and also be a valued resource for business and community organizations. Building highlights include:

- 41,000-square-foot building
- 7 high-tech classrooms
- 232-seat auditorium
- Boardroom
- Meeting conference rooms, faculty offices, student services and other staff offices

All media are invited to attend.
