Journal/Magazine Articles

How to find an article using the DU LInC website.

1. To search for magazine or journal articles chose one of our databases from the list of databases found on our LInC page.

Alphabetical List of Library Databases

INSTRUCTIONS:

Login help: If you are having trouble logging in click here.

Hold your mouse over the for a brief description of the database.

List of Journals & e-Journals: Do we have this journal? Find if DU

DATASEBES:

Browse by Subcategory

Select a Subject below

All | Business & Management | Company Information | Compu
Humanities | Legal | Social Sciences

Academic OneFile
Biography & Genealogy Master Index
Biography Resource Center

If you are looking for materials in a specific topic area, select one of the options from the subcategory listing to narrow your list of databases.
2. You can also search for a specific title by selecting the List of Journals & e-Journals. From the database page select:

This opens a search window, which includes some browse options.

Find e-journals by title or ISSN

Title begins with [ ] [Search]

Browse e-journals by title

0-9 A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z

Browse e-journals by subject

-- Please select a subject category -- [ ] [Search]

Search for keywords in e-journals

- ABI/INFORM Global
- ABI/INFORM Trade & Industry
- Academic OneFile
3. The List of Journals and e-Journals will indicate the coverage each title is given in a particular database:

Selecting one of the links under a journal title from the list may also provide basic information about the periodical such as publisher, frequency and availability. Some titles are “embargoed” which means the database has to wait a specified period of time before making full text articles available. More on that further down.

Here is a sample of the description provided for each title in a Gale Onefile:
You can estimate the embargoed period by checking the list to see what the most recent date is on the List of Journals and e-journals or check the database vendor’s information. For Gale databases, you can click on the Title list.

This takes you to their Web site and allows you to select the database you are in (in our example, Academic Onefile) and open a document to view the titles.
Another simpler way to check for an embargoed title in a Gale OneFile database is to scroll down beneath the search screen and click on the “About [database name]” button. Not all Gale databases have this option:

When you click on this link, it takes you to the Gale home page.
At the right side of the screen you’ll find a link to Title Lists, available in different formats.
Here is an example of the Excel document that opens, with the Embargo column listed in number of days.

When you see a ProQuest link from under the title searched for, if there is an embargo (delay), the information is right before the link.

2 records retrieved for the search: Title begins with "National Journal"

National journal (1975) (call 917) from 01/01/1994 to 7 days ago in ProQuest Research Library from 07/01/1999 to 09/30/2001 in Business & Company Resource Center and Opposing Viewpoints Resource Center from 07/25/1999 to 09/22/2001 in Academic OneFile, Expanded Academic ASAP, General OneFile and General Reference Center Gold from 01/02/1999 to 09/22/2001 in General Business File ASAP

National journal of constitutional law (1981-92/40)
from 12/01/2004 to present in ProQuest Research Library
It is also right on the first page after linking to the database.

If you find a discrepancy between what should be there and what is there, please let the LInC know.
Many of our databases also allow for specifying types of articles when searching or working with the results of your search. The limiting possibilities are on the search screen.
Use the tabs to limit the search results after the search.

Types of articles include:

- Magazine - these articles are written for the general public
- Academic journals – these are written for professionals in a particular field.
- Peer reviewed articles – articles that have been read and reviewed by experts in the field before being published in a journal
- Newsletters – usually professional, these are smaller publications
- Pamphlets – these contain information on a selected topic

5. Each database will allow you to search for specific article titles while searching. Please refer to the Publication search in a database help sheet.

Feb/2008