Writing style

A brief note on style

In the Davenport University style guide, we provide a reference point for the writing standards that help produce a consistent, branded voice across all channels. This guide is intended to clarify any style choices of the Davenport brand that might contradict the recommendations of popular dictionaries or style guides.

Our guidelines are based on Associated Press (AP) style, so if you cannot find an answer to your question in this guide, please consult the AP Stylebook. Some styles may be broken on a case-by-case basis and only when the design or user experience would be improved by the change. Contact ducomm@davenport.edu for any writing style questions.

Elevator pitch

Career-centered curriculum and real-world experience

For 150 years, Davenport has stood apart from other universities because of its unrelenting focus on ensuring its graduates rise to the top of the job market. Its unique approach to education offers students a career-centered curriculum and empowers them with real-world experience.

You'll find Davenport provides an education that works for you with its more than 60 bachelor's and master's degree programs, small class sizes, seven-week courses and classes held online or on campuses across Michigan. As a private, not-for-profit university with accreditation by the Higher Learning Commission, you can be assured Davenport will deliver a quality education that's focused on your success.

Voice & tone

Davenport University strives to produce fresh, relevant and instructive content. Here are a few notes on voice and tone that will assist you in your writing. Use your best judgement when applying this advice.

Voice

The following contains general advice.

- Address the audience as you
- Write in the first person; use I or we
- Refer to an outside company as a singular entity; use it not they
- Answer the question, “Now what?” – always provide a next step

Avoid heavy, overwhelming paragraphs. Break them into short chunks that are easy to scan and provide frequent breaks with concise headings and subheadings that summarize content. Quick takeaways and short bullet points can help readers scan too.

Starting a sentence with a coordinating conjunction, such as And or But, is okay in moderation.

Unless writing a formal document, we prefer to take a more conversational, less formal tone; feel free to use contractions such as it’s, you’re, they’re and she’s.

Tone

In general, use a friendly and conversational tone.

- Accessible, plainspoken and optimistic
- Helpful and knowledgeable, not salesy or pushy
- Expert, but not know-it-all; free of jargon

Unless writing a formal document, we prefer to take a more conversational, less formal tone; feel free to use contractions such as it’s, you’re, they’re and she’s.

Voice & tone Casa Latina

Follow the same tone/voice for Davenport University overarching brand. Davenport University strives to produce fresh, relevant and instructive content.

Voice

The following contains general advice..

- Address the audience as you
- Write in the first person; use I or we
- Refer to an outside company as a singular entity; use it not they
- Answer the question, “Now what?” – always provide a next step

Our goal is to position the Casa Latina initiative as a sub-brand of Davenport University rather than an entity. When possible, we should strive to utilize the formal nomenclature ‘Davenport University’s Casa Latina program...’ The word initiative may be substituted for program. ‘Casa Latina is a groundbreaking initiative launched by Davenport University.’

To prevent repetitive, copy-heavy language in tactics that benefit from condensed copy, after the first use of Davenport University’s Casa Latina program/initiative, the shortened verbiage Casa Latina may be used.

Where a tactic allows for longer copy, utilize Casa Latina as an adjective exclusively. For example, the Casa Latina program or Casa Latina degrees should be utilized on webpages, in email and collateral.

Tactics such as digital ads, billboards and press releases may use the shortened verbiage.

When referring to the 12 undergraduate and graduate degree programs, the phrase ‘degree program’, ‘degree programs’, ‘degree’ or ‘degrees’ may be used. We should avoid using ‘program/programs’ when referring to the 12 degree programs. We recommend using ‘degree programs’ as the first use.

Tone

In general, use a friendly and conversational tone.

- Accessible, plainspoken and optimistic
- Helpful and knowledgeable, not salesy or pushy
- Expert, but not know-it-all; free of jargon
 - Contractions: Unless writing a formal document, we prefer to take a more conversational, less formal tone; feel free to use contractions such as it’s, you’re, they’re and she’s.
 - Callouts: Do not add periods after callouts that occur throughout a piece when they are set apart using design, even if they are complete sentences.
 - Calls-to-action: Do add periods after calls-to-action but only when they form complete sentences.

Davenport University specifics

Davenport University and DU

When writing about Davenport University on any external-facing pieces, do not refer to Davenport as DU. Instead, refer to the school as one of the following: the university, Davenport University or Davenport.

Student Activity Center

When writing about the Student Activity Center, capitalize all three words – Student Activity Center is the formal name of the building. The acronym SAC can be used after the full name is spelled out once.

Donald W. Maine College of Business

When referencing the Donald W. Maine College of Business and/or its building, always spell out the full formal name; DON'T say the CoB, College of Business, or Maine College of Business in any formal or external-facing work.

Peter C. Cook Center

Similarly, when referencing the Peter C. Cook Center, always spell out the full formal name; DON'T say the Cook Center. Also, be sure to refer to the building as a “center” – it’s not the Peter C. Cook Building, it’s the Peter C. Cook Center.

Farmers Insurance Athletic Complex

When referencing the Farmers Insurance Athletic Complex, always spell out the full formal name; don’t say Farmers Complex or Farmers Athletic Complex. If you want to shorten, you can use an informal, general name like the athletic complex or the Panther football field. DON'T use an apostrophe in Farmers.

Capitalization

“The university”

When writing about the university, do not capitalize the word university unless it’s written as part of a formal name, such as Davenport University, or when it begins a sentence. Exception: Capitalize university only in formal communications or policies when it’s written in front of the word President, without Davenport and people’s names are not used.

After a colon

In running text, don’t capitalize the first word after a colon unless it is the start of a complete sentence. In titles and subtitles, always capitalize the first word after a colon.

Department/college names

Always capitalize the full formal name of a department or college when it is spelled out. Shorthand names of departments are always lowercase; do not capitalize an informal name unless it falls at the beginning of a sentence. Then, capitalize only the first word.

Readability

All copy used both internally and externally should be written at an 8th grade reading level. Reading level can be determined through simple tools, like spellcheck after a document is written.

Job titles

Job titles are capitalized only when they are used immediately before one or more names; they are not capitalized when used after a name. To avoid excessive capitalization, which can appear awkward, try to place long job titles after the name.

Headings & subheadings

In headings, only capitalize the first and any word immediately following a colon. These rules also apply to subheadings. Avoid using ampersands; use and instead.

Branded product names & trademarks

Capitalize all branded product names, services, teams and operations. Trademark and registered trademark designations (™ and ®) are not used in AP Style for body text or in headlines unless Davenport University owns the trademark.

Other

Dashes

Em dash: When the tone is appropriate, feel free to use em dashes, with spaces on either side, to set off text or emphasize a point in a sentence.

En dash: At the end of a quotation, use an en dash with a space on either side to set off an attribution.

Phone numbers

Include a period in between all unit blocks of a phone number, not dashes or parentheses. This differs from AP Style.

Periods

Callouts: Do not add periods after callouts that occur throughout a piece when they are set apart using design, even if they are complete sentences.

Calls-to-action: Do add periods after calls-to-action but only when they form complete sentences.

Word list

Note: Some of these spellings may differ from AP Style. If in doubt and a word is not listed here, use the AP Style version and/or contact ducomm@davenport.edu for clarification.

Clear space

Providing an adequate amount of clear space around all of our logos will ensure maximum visibility and impact. Placing the logo too close to edges, text boxes, or images can make the design look cluttered and unprofessional.

Ineffective logo usage

Please do not skew, rotate or stretch any Davenport University logos. Do not change colors, add effects or outlines, change the typeface, or add any additional elements.

Pounce's shadow

Pounce has a very distinct look, including an ominous shadow on the right side of his face. It's important that the shadow always remain on the right side of his face, regardless of the color variation.

1. In the full color version of the logo, the shadow will always appear in black on the right side of Pounce's face, or for the viewer, on the left.
2. For single color logos on darker tones (i.e. black, red, etc.), the shadow will be transparent or the same color as the background.
3. When the logo appears on a white or light colored background, the opposite of the face will be transparent or the same color as the background, and the shadow will be the color of the logo.

Whew. Take a breather.

There's a lot of information here, and it's ok to feel overwhelmed. But it's important to remember that we're always here to help if you have any questions.

The font Davenport Steelfish is no longer in use by the University.

If you see it, please let Marketing and Communications know so that we can get it replaced with the current typeface.

We should not create anything new with the typeface, but you are encouraged to use any remaining pieces that incorporate the typeface.

Headlines and sub-headlines

1. Headlines should be written in sentence case, not title case.
2. Headlines will generally be black.
3. Headlines will generally be bold.
4. Allow adequate space between headlines, sub-headlines, and paragraphs.
5. Subhead-lines can be red or black.
6. Only use punctuation when absolutely necessary (i.e. complete sentences)
7. Headlines should always be larger than subhead-lines

Bullets

1. Bullets should be circles or dots.
2. Text should be evenly spaced from the bullet..
3. Bullets should be the same color as the text.

Letter spacing

Letter spacing

Also known as “tracking”, the letter spacing is the space between ALL letters in a body of text. “Kerning”, on the other hand, is the space between individual pairs of letters, and can vary throughout the body of text.

When using the Core Sans C typeface, it’s always a good idea to slightly increase the letter spacing if possible. This helps with the legibility of the otherwise fairly condensed typeface.

Line-spacing

Line-spacing

Also known as “leading”, the line-spacing is the space between each line in a body of text and should always be increased slightly from the default setting.

This is particularly important to increase the legibility of body text.

Effective type usage

1. Use large, bold headlines for high visibility and to grab attention
2. Establish a clear hierarchy using type size, weight, and color, to help the audience easily understand the content
3. Use adequate spacing between headlines, subheads, and paragraphs
4. Use a generous amount of white space to increase clarity and readability

Photography

Images are an important part of our design, and the right visuals can take our marketing pieces from ordinary to outstanding. While it takes time and resources to find appropriate, high-quality photos to support our content, the results speak for themselves

Selecting good photography can be boiled down to three simple areas that should always be kept in mind:

1. Light
2. Color
3. Composition

Photography > Light

Light

Our images should feel bright and inspirational, using natural light whenever possible. Avoid images that appear dark or use an abundance of artificial lighting.

Color

The color and tone of a photograph can have a major impact on the look and feel. Images that are too warm can appear to be dated, while too cool can feel cold or over-processed.

Always try to find images that have natural feeling color. Outdoor photos will always feel a little warmer, and indoor, or classroom photos will always feel a little cooler.

Composition

Images should be captured in a photo-journalistic style, free of clutter with a clear and narrow focus. A shallow depth of field is encouraged to add interest and direct the viewers focus.

Avoid images with a complex background, that are over-complicated, or cluttered.

Campus

When using images of campus, we should always use images that represent the latest and greatest in Davenport University facilities. This is particularly important for interior images.

Light and color are very important for exterior images and should be reflective of the seasons, while still appearing bright, expansive, and awe inspiring.

People

People are a large part of our photography story, and we should always aim to use images that feel spontaneous, while still capturing real interactions, genuine expressions, and natural smiles.

For instances when staged or portrait photography is necessary, images should still follow the same guidelines and never appear fake or forced.

A shallow depth of field focused on the subject is also important to our images of people.

Details

Sometimes the smallest details can have the biggest impact. For this reason, it's important to pay special attention to ALL of the details within a photograph.

In addition to everything that has already been mentioned, we should always keep an eye on what subjects are wearing or holding. Avoid any recognizable logos, including those of other universities or prominent business'.

Stock photography

Stock photography is not only acceptable, but often times encouraged.

The images should still fit within all of our other brand guidelines and should not obviously be recognized as a stock image.

Do not use images that appear dark or underexposed.

Do not use images without a clear point of focus.

Do not use images with other university or brand logos.

Do not use images with a complex or cluttered background.

Do not use images that appear staged or unnatural.

Do not use images that are not colored correctly.

Do not use stock images that appear too "stocky".

8 Reasons transfer students love Davenport University

1. Every student who transfers to Davenport receives a transfer grant or a scholarship, which means you'll receive at least 20% off of tuition
2. Our transfer students report that one of the top reasons they chose Davenport was because we offered them the most credits for their past achievements – we take CLEP, DSST, prior coursework and even certain work experience into account
3. Davenport offers customized transfer plans – we accept up to 90 transfer credits and provide you with a personalized pathway to earning your bachelor's degree
4. You can easily transfer your entire associate's degree and earn your bachelor's in only two years in one of 60+ degree programs at Davenport
5. In our 3+1 program, you can attend your community college for three years and Davenport for one to earn your bachelor's in just four years
6. Davenport offers flexible in-seat and online class options that will fit your schedule
7. Many of our business, health and technology students get access to our employment guarantee program
8. You'll have lifetime access to a career coach who will help you write your resume and cover letter, provide interviewing tips, assist you in securing internships and more
