This resembles a credit card in size and form. Though it cannot be used for international air travel, it is, like the passport book, proof of U.S. citizenship.

Form N-550, Certificate of Naturalization

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) issues a Certificate of Naturalization to a person who was born outside the United States but became a citizen of the United States through naturalization.

USCIS and its predecessor, the U.S. Department of Justice Immigration and Naturalization Service, have issued several versions of this document type. Earlier versions may not contain all the data elements and security features that have been added over the years. Accordingly, the absence of these features in earlier versions does not mean the document is not valid.

This image shows a 2010 version of the Naturalization Certificate (Form N-550). The certificate is for a female individual named Sample Void Name, born on July 19, 1988. The certificate number is No. S0000000. The USCIS/A-Number is A00000000. The individual is currently residing in Los Angeles, California. The certificate was issued in Baltimore, Maryland, on August 19, 2010. The certificate is signed by the Director of U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services.

Form N-570, Certificate of Naturalization

The Form N-570 is a replacement certificate issued by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services when the original Certificate of Naturalization is lost, mutilated, or destroyed, or when the individual's name has legally changed.

USCIS and its predecessor, the U.S. Department of Justice Immigration and Naturalization Service, have issued several versions of this document type. Earlier versions may not contain all the data elements and security features that have been added over the years. Accordingly, the absence of these features in earlier versions does not mean the document is not valid.

N-570 (Current Version)

Form N-560, Certificate of Citizenship

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) issues the Form N-560 to persons born outside the United States and who apply for a Certificate of Citizenship and:

- Derived citizenship after birth through a United States citizen parent;
- Acquired citizenship at birth because they were born abroad to United States citizen parent(s); or
- Naturalized under section 322 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, based on having a U.S. citizen parent and meeting certain other requirements.

Unlike a Certificate of Naturalization, the Certificate of Citizenship is not automatically issued to all those who qualify. To receive a Certificate of Citizenship, the individual or someone acting on behalf of the individual (for example, a United States citizen parent or legal guardian) must apply for it. It is common for individuals to have derived or acquired U.S. citizenship even though they do not have a Certificate of Citizenship.

USCIS and its predecessor, the U.S. Department of Justice Immigration and Naturalization Service, have issued several versions of this document type. Earlier versions may not contain all the data elements and security features that have been added over the years. Accordingly, the absence of these features in earlier versions does not mean the document is not valid.

Form I-571 Refugee Travel Document

U.S. Citizenship & Immigration Services (USCIS) issues refugee travel documents to people with refugee or asylum status and to lawful permanent residents who obtained their permanent resident status based on their refugee or asylee status. A Refugee Travel Document is valid for travel to or from the United States but may not be issued to otherwise eligible individuals who have been outside the United States for 1 year or more. Refugee Travel Documents are normally valid for 1 year from the date of issuance. A Refugee Travel Document appears similar to a Reentry Permit, but includes a Refugee Travel Document notation above the photograph.

Form I-551, Permanent Resident Card (Green Card)

Form I-551, Permanent Resident Card or Alien Registration Receipt Card

To reduce the risk of fraud and counterfeiting, USCIS redesigns the Permanent Resident Card (PRC) every three to five years. Introduction of new card designs does not mean that cards with previous designs are invalid. Both current and previous cards remain valid until the expiration date shown on the card (unless otherwise noted such as through an automatic extension of the validity period of the PRC as indicated on a Form I-797, Notice of Action, or in a Federal Register notice). USCIS began issuing its most recent redesign on January 30, 2023. Some PRCs issued after that date may still display the previous design format because USCIS uses existing card stock until supplies are depleted. These cards are also known as “Green Cards.”

PRC Auto-Extensions

LPRs may present an expired or expiring PRC in combination with a Form I-797C, Notice of Action, receipt notice for any of the following:

- Form I-90, Application to Replace Permanent Resident Card;
- Form N-400, Application for Naturalization;
- Form I-751, Petition to Remove Conditions on Residence; or
- Form I-829, Petition by Investor to Remove Conditions on Permanent Resident Status.

If the receipt notice contains language extending the validity period of the PRC, the PRC is valid through the end date on the PRC plus the extension period provided by the receipt notice.

Even if a PRC has expired, the bearer may still be a Lawful Permanent Resident. Verify their LPR status using SAVE.

If no foreign passport is available, the I-551 stamp may be placed on a Form I-94, Arrival/Departure Record, and a photograph of the bearer may be affixed to the form.

Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document

To reduce the risk of fraud and counterfeiting, USCIS redesigns the Employment Authorization Document (EAD) card three to five years. Introduction of new EAD designs does not mean that previous designs are invalid. Both current and previous cards remain valid until the expiration date shown on the card (unless otherwise noted such as through an automatic extension of the validity period of the EAD indicated on a Form I-797, Notice of Action, or in a Federal Register notice, or in an individual notice sent to a beneficiary. USCIS issued its most recent redesign on Jan. 30, 2023. Some EADs issued after that date may still display the existing design format because USCIS uses existing card stock until supplies are depleted.

EAD Auto-Extensions

User agencies should accept EADs that have had the validity period automatically extended by DHS because they are considered unexpired. These include EADs which have a “Card Expires” date that has passed, or one that has not yet passed. To determine whether an EAD validity period is extended, agencies should follow the scenario-based guidance below and then use SAVE to verify the extended EAD validity period.

1. Applicant presents an EAD with a Temporary Protected Status (TPS) category A12 or C19 or Deferred Enforced Departure (DED) category A11 but no extension notice.

- If the EAD has a TPS-related category:
 - Visit the country-specific TPS webpage available through the applicable country link on left side of the Temporary Protected Status webpage. Use the information on the country-specific TPS webpage to determine whether there is an automatic extension of expiring EADs for TPS beneficiaries of that country.
- If the EAD has a DED Category:
 - Visit the country-specific DED webpage available through the applicable country link on the left side of the Deferred Enforced Departure webpage.
 - Use the information on the country-specific DED webpage to determine whether there is an automatic extension of expiring EADs for DED beneficiaries of that country.

Form I-94, Arrival/Departure Record CBP

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS), U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP), and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) issue Form I-94, in either paper or electronic format, to aliens as evidence of their immigration status or category. The Form I-94 generally includes an expiration date, a notation of "D/S" for duration of status (e.g., for F-1 nonimmigrant students), or "indefinite" for individuals allowed to remain in the United States indefinitely (e.g., asylees). Form I-94 also includes the person's Class of Admission (COA). Form I-94 numbers are 11 digits or, for CBP I-94s issued on or after May 2019, generally 9 digits followed by a letter in the 10th position, and a digit in the 11th position.

CBP Electronic I-94

CBP has automated the Form I-94 at air and sea ports of entry. Some Form I-94s at land ports of entry have also been automated. CBP may also provide a CBP admission or parole stamp on the person's foreign passport or other travel document. Aliens can obtain a copy of their automated Form I-94 from <https://i94.cbp.dhs.gov> or the CBP One mobile app. The Form I-94 printout from the CBP I-94 website is an official Form I-94 and should be accepted as such.

Paper Form I-94

USCIS and ICE issue a paper Form I-94, Arrival/Departure Record. CBP also often issues a paper Form I-94 at land ports of entry and, in limited circumstances, at air and sea ports of entry. Information on a paper Form I-94 may be hand-written rather than printed. A Form I-94 issued by CBP may also include an admission stamp endorsed by a CBP officer.

The above petition and extension of stay have been approved. The status of the named foreign worker(s) in this classification is valid as indicated above. The foreign worker(s) can work for the petitioner, but only as outlined in the petition and for the period authorized. Changes in employment or training may require you to file a new Form I-129 petition. Since this employment or training authorization stems from the filing of this petition, separate employment or training authorization documentation is not required. Please contact the IRS with any questions about tax withholding.

The petitioner should keep the upper portion of this notice. The lower portion should be given to the worker. He or she should keep the right part with his or her Form I-94, Arrival-Departure Record. The I-94 portion should be given to the U.S. Customs and Border Patrol when he or she leaves the United States. The left part is for his or her records. A person granted an extension of stay who leaves the U.S. must normally obtain a new visa before returning. The left part can be used in applying for the new visa. If a visa is not required, he or she should present it, along with any other required documentation, when applying for reentry in this new classification at a port of entry or pre-flight inspection station. The petitioner may also file Form I-824, Application for Action on an Approved Application or Petition, to request that we notify a consulate, port of entry, or pre-flight inspection office of this approval.

The approval of this visa petition does not in itself grant any immigration status and does not guarantee that the alien beneficiary will subsequently be found to be eligible for a visa, for admission to the United States, or for an extension, change, or adjustment of status.

THIS FORM IS NOT A VISA AND MAY NOT BE USED IN PLACE OF A VISA.

Unexpired Foreign Passport

A foreign passport is a travel and identity document issued by a foreign government. It provides proof of a person's identity and foreign citizenship or nationality and is often required for inter-country travel. E-passports have the same format as other foreign passports, and also contain an electronic chip. A foreign passport does not, by itself, establish that the bearer has an immigration status or category. However, a foreign passport with an admission stamp endorsed by a CBP officer is evidence of the immigration status or category reflected on the stamp. In addition, documentation of an immigration status or category, such as a Machine Readable Immigrant Visa, I-551 stamp, or paper Form I-94, is often affixed or attached to a foreign passport.
